Most common asked question......

What is the minimum eligibility index, GPA, SAT, etc. needed to get into <<Insert name of impacted campus here>>?

Answer: It has not been set yet. Eligibility cut off is based on the applicant pool that applies.

You can view campus websites for last year’s cut off, but it doesn’t dictate the cut off for fall 2015 admissions.

It is to the student’s advantage to be as competitive as possible (i.e. taking A-G subjects, getting A’s/B’s, etc.)
Fall 2015 Freshman Admission Criteria

San Diego State University accepts freshman applications each year between October 1 and November 30 for admission the following fall. Get started by reviewing the admission criteria below, and then find out how to apply.

Who is a Freshman?

You can apply to SDSU as a first-time freshman if you have:

- not yet graduated high school;
- graduated high school, but have not taken college courses since the summer after graduation.

Note that as a first-time freshman, you are required to live in on-campus housing for your first year if you are from outside SDSU’s local admission area or are a participant in the University Honors College.

San Diego State University only accepts applications for a second bachelor’s degree in Nursing.

How Freshman Applicants Are Ranked

We consider freshman applicants on the following criteria:

- Completion of a-g courses: As a first-time freshman applicant, you must complete, with grades of C or higher, the 15-unit comprehensive pattern of college preparatory courses. See the list of a-g courses.

- Eligibility Index (GPA and test scores): The eligibility index is the combination of your high school grade point average and your SAT/ACT test scores. All California State University campuses use the eligibility index as part of the admission decision. Calculate your eligibility index.

- The major to which you apply: You must choose a major when you apply to SDSU. All majors are competitive, and every major has more applicants than available slots (the CSU calls this imputation). During admission applicants are ranked within each major, rather than overall. The popularity of majors changes every year based on the applicant pool. Admission is major-specific, which means you cannot change your major during the application process. Specific majors will have additional requirements you must meet for admission to the major and the university. Music, Dance and Theatre Arts (Performance) require applicants to pass an audition as part of the admissions process. Nursing majors will be tested for admission by their respective campuses.

Submit the application by the appropriate deadline because late applications are not accepted.

Freshmen applicants have two options under which to apply:

The 'Regular Admissions Decision' option

This option is used by the vast majority of freshman applicants and requires submitting the CSUmentor online application with the $55.00 fee, electronically by November 30th. Applicants admitted under this option will be notified by April 1st and must reply by May 1st.

The 'Early Admissions Decision' option

This option is offered to those first-time freshman applicants for whom Cal Poly is clearly their first choice. Applicants should have established strong and consistent academic records throughout secondary school and should have completed all the required standardized testing by October of their senior year.

Candidates are reviewed on their program of study in secondary school, academic performance in classes, standardized test scores, extra-curricular activities, and/or work experience.

Early Decision candidates must be committed to attend Cal Poly. Students admitted under this plan and who accept the terms of admission may be released only for compelling medical or financial reasons.

For applicants who choose the Early Decision option:

- Interested applicants must submit the CSUmentor online application, along with the required $55 application fee, by a final deadline of October 31st.
- Selected applicants are notified of the admission decision around December 15th.
- Selected applicants must accept Cal Poly’s offer of admission by January 15th. Qualified applicants not selected are automatically reviewed under the Regular Admission Decision program and notified by April 1st.
- Applicants who apply for Early Decision and are not selected will automatically be reviewed under the Regular Decision option.

Please Note: Applicants to the majors of Art & Design and Music may not apply through the Early Admissions Decision program since a portfolio or audition is required for those majors at later dates. Select applicants to the Art and Design and Music majors will be invited to submit either a portfolio for Art and Design or schedule an audition for the Music department (or submit an audition recording). Qualified applicants for both programs will be notified in mid-January with submission information. Interested applicants can link to the Art and Design website or Music website for more information.

Admission & Financial Aid Tips:

• Find a campus that best fits you and take a campus tour!

• Apply early (don’t wait until last week in November)

• Check your email (The email address that is on your application is the one we email to)

• TIP: Create an email address that you and your parents check

• Go to a Financial Aid Workshop with your parents

• Remember that when you are admitted it is provisional (you have to complete your last semester of high school and still meet the admissions requirements)!

• Do not assume the admissions process is the same for all CSU campuses. Pay attention to communication that is sent to you via email and mail.
